

Practical Autism Treatment – From Theories to Realities

A Case Management Survival Guide for Parents & Community Professionals

Presented by Jill Calder, M.D.

Clinical Director of Rehabilitation Services
Thompson Cariboo Shuswap Region

Vancouver – Wednesday, August 27, 2008 – 8:30 AM – 4:00 PM

Fletcher Challenge Theatre, Harbour Centre Campus
Simon Fraser University, 515 West Hastings Street

About the Workshop

Dr. Calder's fascinating presentation, illustrated with video and her own experiences as the parent of a child with ASD, provides important insights into best practices in the treatment of children with autism. The morning session will focus on the question "Why does the child with ASD behave like that?" A better understanding of autism is the launching pad for parents and community professionals to become important members of the child's treatment team. The afternoon session will focus on parental and professional roles in the treatment team and how to make the team work in the interests of the child—a case management approach.

With a decade's experience of successfully parenting her son with autism, Dr. Calder builds on her expertise as a highly respected rehabilitative medicine specialist and combines this with her wide-ranging practical grasp of autism treatment. The result is a compelling workshop full of important insights into the special challenges of autism for parents and how they can be supported by community professionals to become active participants in their child's treatment. This focus on developing parent understanding of autism and their role as case manager is supported by international research. Increased parental education and involvement can result in significantly improved outcomes for children with ASD.

About the Presenter

Dr. Calder is a Medical Rehabilitation Specialist, and has been Clinical Director of Rehabilitation Services for the Thompson

Cariboo Health Region since 1991. In her clinical practice, she has special interests in paediatric rehabilitation and brain injury. Prior to her medical career, she received a combined degree in occupational therapy and physical therapy. She has given numerous presentations on autism to medical and non-medical audiences, with a focus on the need for evidence-based treatment and interdisciplinary co-operation. Dr. Calder has a teenage son with ASD.

Who Should Attend this Workshop?

This workshop has been developed for parents, community professionals and para-professionals who wish to work as teams to address the challenges that autism treatment presents to families. Parents, teachers, speech & language pathologists, physical and occupational therapists, mental health specialists, infant development consultants, supported childcare consultants, childcare workers and special education assistants are all welcome to attend. To read comments from previous workshop participants, see www.actcommunity.net.

Just Ask! ACT Information & Support Services

ACT is a registered not-for-profit society, founded by parents of children with ASD in 2003. ACT's Information Officers are available to answer questions on which of our events would be relevant for the child or student you support. ACT also offers extensive information and support to families and community professionals on diagnostic, treatment and educational topics. We can be reached by telephone at 604-205-5467, toll-free at 1-866-939-5188, or e-mail info@actcommunity.net. Want to know more about our mission and the people behind ACT? See www.actcommunity.net/about_us.

Acknowledging Our Community Partners

ACT thanks the many parents and professionals across BC who volunteer their time to support our work. Our community volunteers range from local parents and community groups to members of our advisory board who provide a range of expertise. ACT gratefully acknowledges the Consortium for the Advancement of Child Health – SFU for co-sponsoring our events and providing excellent facilities in Vancouver at a reduced cost. See www.sfu.ca/autism-lab/. ACT recognizes the on-going support provided by the Ministry of Children and Family Development for many of our training initiatives, including this one. The commitment of our presenters is particularly appreciated.

ACT Bursaries

Parents may use up to 20% of their autism funding to pay for training workshops and travel costs. ACT does offer bursaries, as long as our funds permit, for low income parents and those travelling from outside the Metro Vancouver area. Bursaries are provided as reduced registration fees. Call ACT's office for more information or e-mail info@actcommunity.net with your request before registration. For details, see our website at www.actcommunity.net. Donations to ACT for the bursary fund are gratefully received and enable us to make our workshops more affordable as many receive no external subsidy. ACT is a registered charity: #86169 1236 RR0001. Tax receipts are issued.

Location, Schedule and Hotel Information

Harbour Centre is located at 515 West Hastings Street and is close to the Seabus terminal, West Coast Express, Skytrain and major bus routes. Parking is plentiful but expensive—public transit is a great option.

Please visit ACT's website at www.actcommunity.net for hotels that give preferred rates to our registrants, or call us at 604-205-5467 or toll-free 1-866-939-5188. You may also e-mail us at info@actcommunity.net. For the workshop schedule, please check the website.
